DICTIONARY OF COMMON CHINESE-CANTONESE CHARACTERS

This dictionary contains 1,500 Chinese-Cantonese characters tsẑ 字 (words) with more than 6,000 Chinese-Cantonese terms ts'z̄ 辭 (syntactical words). The characters were systematically selected from three frequency lists. The terms were carefully chosen from three Cantonese-English dictionaries.

The characters are arranged alphabetically according to the U.S. Army Language School System of Romanization. This system of Romanization is comprehensively described in the Chinese-Cantonese Basic Course Volume I and Chinese-Cantonese Refresher Course Volume I, both published by the U.S. Army Language School.

Each entry of this dictionary has the following:

1. The number of the character.
2. The character, its reading(s), and its English equivalents.
3. Use of the character in some most common terms or syntactical words.
4. Various forms and styles of the character:
    a. The model or regular writing k'aaí-shue 楷書 in the center.
    b. The alternative forms of regular writing in the lower center and lower left corner.
    c. The printed form hak-paán-tsẑ 刻版字 at the upper left corner.
    d. The abbreviated form kaám-pat-tsẑ 減筆字 at the upper right corner.
    e. The cursive style ts'ó-shue 草書 or running style hāng-shue 行書 at the lower right corner.
